Dubai, UAE: GMCL has just announced the launch of a Rs 900 Crore ($100 million) blockchain-based tokenisation issue, positioning it as one of the first large-scale digital asset offerings linked to a professional international cricket league. Baba Inder Preet Singh, founder GMCL said that "The offering will create a tokenised investment structure designed to provide exposure to the league's commercial ecosystem, including broadcast rights, sponsorship revenues, franchise participation, licensing, and digital fan engagement platforms. GMCL plans to engage institutional investors, digital asset funds, family offices, and strategic partners as part of the global issuance process."

The GMCL Tokenisation Issue is being led by Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor, for the GMCL Tokenisation Initiative, a blockchain and financial markets strategist advising global projects in digital assets and real-world asset tokenisation. Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) Token would unlock high valuation for the League Ecosystem: League Owners, Country Franchisee Partners, Team Franchisee Owners, Investors, Players, Sponsors & Fan and is now open for Investment & subscription worldwide. The league is expected to launch with 800 franchisee teams, representing major cricket markets across India, the Middle East, the United Kingdom, Australia, USA, Canada and Southeast Asia, with matches expected to be broadcast across more than 100 international markets through television and digital streaming platforms.

GMCL estimates the league could reach a projected audience of more than 500 million cricket viewers globally, leveraging cricket's global fan base of approximately 2.5 billion followers.

The token issuance is expected to be structured through a regulated digital asset framework, with the issuance planned through an international financial jurisdiction supporting digital securities and tokenised assets. Proceeds from the $100 million offering will be used to support league development, franchise operations, media production infrastructure, global marketing, sports infrastructure development, training for young budding cricketers and fan engagement technology platforms.

"Tokenisation is opening new pathways for capital formation across sports and entertainment," said Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor – GMCL Tokenisation Initiative.

"By combining the scale of the global cricket economy with blockchain-based financial infrastructure, this initiative aims to enable broader investor participation while increasing transparency and efficiency in sports financing," he added.

Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) announces Rs 900cr tokenisation issue, marking first major blockchain financing for an int'l cricket league.

Dubai, UAE: GMCL has just announced the launch of a Rs 900 Crore ($100 million) blockchain-based tokenisation issue, positioning it as one of the first large-scale digital asset offerings linked to a professional international cricket league. Gaba Inder Preet Singh, founder GMCL, said that "The offering will create a tokenized investment structure designed to provide exposure to the league's commercial ecosystem, including broadcast rights, sponsorship revenues, franchise participation, licensing, and digital fan engagement platforms. GMCL plans to engage institutional investors, digital asset funds, family offices, and strategic partners as part of the global issuance process."

The GMCL Tokenization Issue is being led by Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor, for the GMCL Tokenization Initiative, a blockchain and financial markets strategist advising global projects in digital assets and real-world asset tokenization. Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) Token would unlock high valuation for the League Ecosystem: League Owners, County Franchise Partners, Team Franchise Owners, Investors, Players, Sponsors & Fans and is now open for investment & subscription worldwide. The league is expected to launch with 600 franchise teams, representing major cricket markets across India, the Middle East, the United Kingdom, Australia, USA, Canada and Southeast Asia, with matches expected to be broadcast across more than 100 international markets through television and digital streaming platforms.

GMCL estimates the league could reach a projected audience of more than 500 million cricket viewers globally, leveraging cricket's global fan base of approximately 2.5 billion followers.

The token issuance is expected to be structured through a regulated digital asset framework, with the issuance planned through an international financial jurisdiction supporting digital securities and tokenized assets. Proceeds from the $100 million offering will be used to support league development, franchise operations, media production infrastructure, global marketing, sports infrastructure development, training for young budding cricketers, and fan engagement technology platforms.

"Tokenization is opening new pathways for capital formation across sports and entertainment," said Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor - GMCL Tokenization Initiative.

"By combining the scale of the global cricket economy with blockchain-based financial infrastructure, this initiative aims to enable broader investor participation while increasing transparency and efficiency in sports financing," he added.

Industry analysts say tokenization could reshape sports financing models by enabling fractional digital ownership structures and investor-friendly access to sports-related revenue streams.

Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) which internationally has been founded as Global Mega Street Cricket League (GMCL) along with Gali Mohalla Cricket Association (GMCA) is being funded by 10 International Countries and 16 Indian States in its 1st International & Domestic Season 2025-2027 & has been set up to be the biggest, grassroots international cricket league platform focused on building a complete global cricket ecosystem while integrating sports, digital assets, and blockchain-enabled financial infrastructure.

Dubai, UAE: GMCL has just announced the launch of a Rs 900 Crore ($100 million) blockchain-based tokenisation issue, positioning it as one of the first large-scale digital asset offerings linked to a professional international cricket league. Baba Inder Preet Singh, founder GMCL, said that "The offering will create a tokenised investment structure designed to provide exposure to the league's commercial ecosystem, including broadcast rights, sponsorship revenues, franchise participation, licensing, and digital fan engagement platforms. GMCL plans to engage institutional investors, digital asset funds, family offices, and strategic partners as part of the global issuance process."

The GMCL Tokenisation Issue is being led by Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor, for the GMCL Tokenisation Initiative, a blockchain and financial markets strategist advising global projects in digital assets and real-world asset tokenisation. Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) Token would unlock high valuation for the League Ecosystem: League Owners, Country Franchise Partners, Team Franchise Owners, Investors, Players, Sponsors & Fan and is now open for investment & subscription worldwide. The league is expected to launch with 800 franchise teams, representing major cricket markets across India, the Middle East, the United Kingdom, Australia, USA, Canada and Southeast Asia, with matches expected to be broadcast across more than 100 international markets through television and digital streaming platforms.

GMCL estimates the league could reach a projected audience of more than 500 million cricket viewers globally, leveraging cricket's global fan base of approximately 2.5 billion followers.

The token issuance is expected to be structured through a regulated digital asset framework, with the issuance planned through an international financial jurisdiction supporting digital securities and tokenised assets. Proceeds from the $100 million offering will be used to support league development, franchise operations, media production infrastructure, global marketing, sports infrastructure development, training for young budding cricketers and fan engagement technology platforms.

"Tokenisation is opening new pathways for capital formation across sports and entertainment," said Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor - GMCL Tokenisation Initiative.

Dubai

Dubai (UAE) March 15: GMCL has just announced the launch of a $100 crore ($100 million) blockchain-based international issue, positioning it as one of the first large-scale digital asset offerings linked to a professional international cricket league. Baba Indar Prave Singh, founder GMCL, said that "The offering will create a tokenized investment structure designed to provide exposure to the league's commercial ecosystem, including broadcast rights, sponsorship revenues, franchise participation, licensing, and digital fan engagement platforms. GMCL plans to engage institutional investors, digital asset funds, family offices, and strategic partners as part of the global issuance process."

The GMCL Tokenization Issue is being led by Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor, for the GMCL Tokenization Initiative, a blockchain and financial markets strategist advising global projects in digital assets and real-world asset tokenization. Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) Tokenization unlocks high valuation for the League Ecosystem: League Owners, County Franchise Partners, Team Franchise Owners, Investors, Players, Sponsors & Fans and is now open for investment & subscription worldwide. The league is expected to launch with 800 franchise teams, representing major cricket markets across India, the Middle East, the United Kingdom, Australia, USA, Canada and Southeast Asia, with matches expected to be broadcast across more than 100 international markets through television and digital streaming platforms.

GMCL estimates the league could reach a projected audience of more than 500 million cricket viewers globally, leveraging cricket's global fan base of approximately 2.5 billion followers.

"Tokenization is opening new pathways for capital formation across sports and entertainment," said Raj Kapoor, Lead Advisor - GMCL, Tokenization Initiative.

"By combining the scale of the global cricket economy with blockchain-based financial infrastructure, this initiative aims to enable broader investor participation while increasing transparency and efficiency in sports financing," he added.

Industry analysts say international issue could empower sports financing models by enabling fractional digital ownership structures and expanding investor access to specialized revenue streams. Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) which historically has been known as Gali Mohalla Cricket League (GMCL) along with Gali Mohalla Cricket Association (GMCA) is being founded in 10 International Countries and in 6 Indian States in its 1st International & Domestic Season 2024-2027. It has been set up to be the biggest professional international cricket league platform focused on building a complete digital cricket ecosystem while integrating sports, digital media, and blockchain-based financial infrastructure.
